

Linda S Young is an award winning artist originally from Brookline, Ma and now lives in Cape Cod and South Carolina. She works in pastel, oil and acrylic. Her ability to capture the nuance of a scene has helped her win many awards including two BEST IN SHOWS. She is a founding member of 21 in Truro and South Cape Artists, a Signature member of Pastel Painters Society of Cape Cod, as well as a Master Artist at the Cape Cod Art Association. She has been in numerous group, juried and solo exhibitions and is in several national and international private collections.

As an active member of the artistic community, she believes in helping others attain their artistic goals. From 2002 until 2009 she was an Artist Mentor through the School to Careers Partnership Art Internship program with the Cape Cod Museum of Art and Cape Cod Community College.

Young was honored to be included the book “100 Southern Artists” published in 2012. She will also be in many exhibitions with the various art associations and giving workshops on the “Joys of Pastel”. An accomplished animal portrait artist she donates her talent to raising money for animal shelters by painting pastel portraits for the winners of their auctions. Animal portraits may also be commissioned

Her work can seen at Sunset River Marketplace, Calabash, N.C.
