

Lynda English is a native of Florence, SC, who has been painting for over 40 years. She is a Member of Excellence in the South Carolina Water media Society, a Signature member in the Southern Watercolor Society(SW) and the Colored Pencil Society of America(CPSA). She and business partner Jackie Wukela, own The Lynda English Studio-Gallery in Florence, SC. Lynda won best in show at the South Carolina Watermedia Society Juried show in 2016, with Hands Of A Fisherman. She teaches an Open Studio (all media) at her Gallery and teaches water media workshops across the State. She has always enjoyed layering her watercolors to achieve strong color and choosing subjects that she can zoom in on so that the viewer can feel and see things that normally they would overlook or take for granted. Lynda's artwork can be found in several South Carolina bank collections, government offices in Charleston, SC, the McLeod Hospital in Florence, SC, and private homes across the United States and Europe. She continues to paint portrait and landscape commissions in watercolor and oil.
